

A gap in prices that signals the end of a price pattern and the beginning of an important market move.